ABOUT HANDBOOK

This handbook is reference material to understand some important provisions of Criminal Major Acts i.e. Criminal Procedure Code, Indian Penal Code and the Evidence Act including some Criminal Minor Acts. In this handbook, an attempt has been made to highlight the differences between the provisions of these Acts prior to the Reorganisation Act and after the commencement of the Reorganisation Act.

Although it is not possible to compile all the laws, their differences as well as the important case laws governing the field, but in this handbook we have tried to touch almost every important aspect of the subject. This handbook will be useful for the investigating officers to find out the differences between the previous laws and the laws in vogue and will also help them in better understanding the new laws.

PREFACE

Change is inevitable and difficult. This is true not only about life but also about law. The overarching mission of the author, in the preparation of this book is to avoid complexities of the Acts explained in these lectures and eliminate procedural difficulties.

Police are one of the most ubiquitous organisations of the society. The policemen, therefore, happen to be the most visible representatives of the government. In an hour of need, danger, crisis and difficulty, when a citizen does not know, what to do and whom to approach, the police station and a policeman happen to be the most appropriate and approachable unit and person for him. The police are expected to be the most accessible, interactive and dynamic organisation of any society. Their roles, functions and duties in the society are natural to be varied, and multifarious on the one hand; and complicated, knotty and complex on the other. Broadly speaking the twin roles, which the police are expected to play in a society are maintenance of law and maintenance of order. However, the ramifications of these two duties are numerous, which result in making a large inventory of duties, functions, powers, roles and responsibilities of the police organisation. Understanding the criminal justice system is a prelude to understanding the police.

CRIMINAL LAW -

The criminal law consists of the substantive law contained in the Indian Penal Code (IPC) as well as the special and local laws enacted by the central and state legislatures from time to time and the procedural law laid down mainly in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (Cr PC.) and the Indian Evidence Act, 1872. These three major Acts, i.e. the IPC, Cr. P.C. and the Indian Evidence Act were enacted by the British during the second half of the 19th Century. Of these, the only major law that has been revised since Independence is the Cr.PC, which was revised in 1973 on the recommendations made by the Law Commission of India. The other two laws, except for some minor amendments, have remained unchanged.

SUBSTANTIVE LAW -

The IPC defines different types of crimes and prescribes appropriate punishment for offences. Offences are classified under different categories i.e. offences against state, armed forces, public order, public justice, public health, safety, morals, human body, property and offence relating to elections, coins, government stamps, weights and measures, religion, documents and property marks, marriage and defamation. The IPC has 511 Sections, of which 330 are about punishments.

1.1 Offences affecting the Public Health Safety- Section 268-277 of IPC.

SECTION 268

Public nuisance.—A person is guilty of a public nuisance who does any act or is guilty of an illegal omission which causes any common injury, danger or annoyance to the public or to the people in general who dwell or occupy property in the vicinity, or which must necessarily cause injury, obstruction, danger or annoyance to persons who may have occasion to use any public right. A common nuisance is not excused on the ground that it causes some convenience or advantage.

Punishment in Public Nuisance is mentioned in Section 290 IPC

“Whoever commits a public nuisance in any case not otherwise punishable by this code shall be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees.(Rs. 200/-)”

Also upon the gravity of situation court can order the defendant to pay the charges to compensate the nuisance caused or may order fine which will make the punishment exemplary.

What is Nuisance?

The dictionary meaning of Nuisance is a person or thing causing inconvenience or annoyance.

In law, Nuisance is an act which is harmful or offensive to the public or a member of it and for which there is a legal remedy.

Relevant Case Law:

In k Ramakrishnan vs. state of Kerala,(AIR 1999 KER 385)

It was Argued that smoking of tobacco in any form of public places makes the non-smokers ‘passive smokers’ and thereby causes public nuisance as defined under s 268 of the IPC. The Kerala high court, therefore, was urged to declare smoking of tobacco not only illegal as it causes public nuisance but also unconstitutional. The high court held that tobacco smoking in public places in the form of cigarettes, cigars, or beedis falls within the mischief of the penal provisions relating to public nuisance. Relying upon the right to life guaranteed under article 21 of the constitutional the high court declared that smoking of tobacco is unconstitutional.

SECTION 269

Negligent act likely to spread infection or disease dangerous to life—

Whoever unlawfully or negligently does any act which is, and which he knows or has reason to believe to be, likely to spread the infection of any disease dangerous to life, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to six months, or with fine, or with both.

What is negligence?

Negligence is a failure to take reasonable care to avoid causing injury or loss to another person. There are four steps in proving negligence.

1. That there is a duty in the circumstances to take care (duty of care).
2. That the behaviour in the circumstances did not meet the standard of care which a reasonable person would meet in the circumstances (breach of duty).
3. That a person has suffered injury or loss which a reasonable person in the circumstances could have been expected to foresee (damage).
4. That the damage was caused by the breach of duty (causation).

Under what circumstances Section 269 can be invoked?

These laws can also be applied by the police in the application of measures to make India Swachh Bharat. These can be enforced for various acts such as public spitting, dumping garbage on the road, urinating and defecating in the open, not wearing face masks in public when suffering from swine flu, medical establishments not making masks available at the registration counter and not implementing infection control precautions, the government not handling air pollution and allowing water to stagnate, leading to the spread of mosquito-borne diseases.

CLASSIFICATION OF OFFENCE

Punishment—Imprisonment for 6 months, or fine, or both

Cognizable— Bailable—Triable by any Magistrate---Non-compoundable.

SECTION 270

Malignant act likely to spread infection of disease dangerous to life—

Whoever malignantly does any act which is, and which he knows or has reason to believe to be, likely to spread the infection of any disease dangerous to life, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to two years, or with fine, or with both.

CLASSIFICATION OF OFFENCE

Punishment—Imprisonment for 2 years, or fine, or both

Cognizable—Bailable— Triable by any Magistrate, Non-compoundable.

SECTION 272

Adulteration of food or drink intended for sale.—

Whoever adulterates any article of food or drink, so as to make such article noxious as food or drink, intending to sell such article as food or drink, or knowing it to be likely that the same will be sold as food or drink, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to six months, or with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, or with both.

Main Ingredients:

1. The section requires that the accused must adulterate any article of food or drink.
2. The adulteration must be such that the article of food or drink becomes noxious.
3. The accused must have intention to sell such a noxious article of food or drink, or must have knowledge that such noxious article of food or drink is likely to be sold as food or drink.

Since the adulteration must be to make the article of food or drink noxious, an adulteration which does not make it noxious is not punishable under this section.

Adulterating milk with water does not make the milk noxious but only adds to the profit margin of the person adulterating, and consequently this section is not applicable.

Mixing fat with ghee does not entail liability under this section as the ghee does not become noxious by such adulteration. ‘Noxious’ means injurious to health and not repugnant to one’s feelings.

CLASSIFICATION OF OFFENCE

Punishment—Imprisonment for 6 months, or fine of 1,000 rupees, or both

Non-Cognizable—Bailable—Triable by any Magistrate

Non-compoundable.

SECTION 271

Disobedience to quarantine rule—

Whoever knowingly disobeys any rule made and promulgated by the Government of India, or by any government, for putting any vessel into a state of quarantine, or for regulating the intercourse of vessels in a state of quarantine with the shore or with other vessels, or for regulating the intercourse between places where an infectious disease prevails and other places, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to six months, or with fine, or with both.

What is Quarantine Rule?

Quarantine refers to strict isolation imposed to prevent the spread of disease. Governments use quarantines to stop the spread of contagious diseases. Quarantines are for people or groups who don't have symptoms but were exposed to the sickness. A quarantine keeps them away from others so they don't unknowingly infect anyone.

Quarantines may be used during:

Outbreaks: When there's a sudden rise in the number of cases of a disease.

Epidemics: Similar to outbreaks, but generally considered larger and more widespread.

Pandemics: Larger than epidemics, generally global in nature and affect more people(Corona Virus Pandemic).

What is Disobedience to Quarantine rule under section 271?

It means that if anybody who knowingly disobeys any rule made with the object of isolating places where an infectious disease prevails from other places, then the person will be guilty under the provision. The section requires disobedience with knowledge of a rule made and promulgated by the government.

Under Section 271 of the code, disobedience to quarantine rule is punishable. The motive behind such disobedience is immaterial. A person who knowingly disobeys any rule made by the government shall be punished whether any injurious consequence flow from it or not.

To 'quarantine' persons means to keep them when suspected of having contracted or been exposed to an infectious disease, out of the community, or to confine them to a given place therein, and to prevent intercourse between them and the people generally of such community.

CLASSIFICATION OF OFFENCE

Punishment—Imprisonment for 6 months, or fine, or both

Non-cognizable— Bailable—Triable by any Magistrate

Non-compoundable.

SECTION 273

Sale of noxious food or drink.—

Whoever sells, or offers or exposes for sale, as food or drink, any article which has been rendered or has become noxious, or is in a state unfit for food or drink, knowing or having reason to believe that the same is noxious as food or drink, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to six months, or with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, or with both.

Main Ingredients:

1. The section requires that the accused must either sell, or offer or expose for sale, any article as food or drink.
2. Such article must have been rendered noxious, or must have become noxious, or it must be in a state unfit for food or drink.
3. The accused must know or must have reason to believe that the article is noxious as food or drink.

Since this chapter relates to 'public' health etc., the sale of noxious food or drink must be for consumption of human beings. Consequently, sale of noxious food or drink for animal consumption is not covered under this section. Sale of milk mixed with water, or ghee mixed with vegetable oil cannot be punished under this section as the state of the article has not become noxious nor has it become in a state unfit for being consumed as food or drink.

CLASSIFICATION OF OFFENCE

Punishment—Imprisonment for 6 months, or fine of 1,000 rupees, or both

Non cognizable—Bailable—Triable by any Magistrate

Non-compoundable.

Section 274

Adulteration of drugs.—

Whoever adulterates any drug or medical preparation in such a manner as to lessen the efficacy or change the operation of such drug or medical preparation, or to make it noxious, intending that it shall be sold or used for, or knowing it to be likely that it will be sold or used for, any medicinal purpose, as if it had not undergone such adulteration, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to six months, or with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, or with both.

Main Ingredients:

1. The section requires that there must be adulteration of any drug or medical preparation.
2. This must be done in such a manner as to lessen its efficacy or change its operation, or to make it noxious.
3. The accused must have the intention that it shall be sold or used for any medicinal purpose, or knowledge that it is likely to be so sold or used, as if to show that no such adulteration has taken place.

CLASSIFICATION OF OFFENCE

Punishment—Imprisonment for 6 months, or fine of 1,000 rupees, or both

Non cognizable—Bailable—Triable by any Magistrate

Non-compoundable.

Section 275

Sale of adulterated drugs.—

Whoever, knowing any drug or medical preparation to have been adulterated in such a manner as to lessen its efficacy, to change its operation, or to render it noxious, sells the same, or offers or exposes it for sale, or issues it from any dispensary for medicinal purposes as unadulterated, or causes it to be used for medicinal purposes by any person not knowing of the adulteration, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to six months, or with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, or with both.

Main Ingredients:

1. The section requires that the accused knows that any drug or medical preparation has been so adulterated as to lessen its efficacy, or to change its operation, or to render it noxious.
2. He must either sell it, or offer it or expose it for sale, or issue it from a dispensary for medicinal purposes as without adulteration, or cause it to be used for medicinal purposes by anyone not knowing of the adulteration.
3. The section not only prohibits sale of adulterated drugs but also its issuance from a dispensary. The expression 'exposes it for sale' does not necessarily mean that the drug must be exposed to view; it is sufficient if it is contained in a packet or in other wrappings. A compressive law, the Drugs and Cosmetics Act, 1940 now regulates the import, manufacture, distribution and sale etc. of drugs.

CLASSIFICATION OF OFFENCE

Punishment—Imprisonment for 6 months, or fine of 1,000 rupees, or both

Non cognizable—Bailable—Triable by any Magistrate

Non-compoundable.

Section 276

Sale of drug as a different drug or preparation.—

Whoever knowingly sells, or offers or exposes for sale, or issues from a dispensary for medicinal purposes, any drug or medical preparation, as a different drug or medical preparation, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to six months, or with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, or with both.

The prosecution must prove that drug or medical preparation has been knowingly sold, or offered or exposed for sale, or issued from a dispensary for medicinal purposes, as a different drug or medical preparation. This section does not refer to adulteration at all.

The liability has been fixed by this section not for the injury caused but for selling, offering or exposing for sale, or for issuing any drug or medical preparation.

CLASSIFICATION OF OFFENCE

Punishment—Imprisonment for 6 months, or fine of 1,000 rupees, or both

Non-cognizable—Bailable—Triable by any Magistrate

Non-compoundable.

Section 277

Fouling water of public spring or reservoir.—

Whoever voluntarily corrupts or fouls the water of any public spring or reservoir, so as to render it less fit for the purpose for which it is ordinarily used, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to three months, or with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, or with both.

Main Ingredients:

1. There must be corrupting or fouling the water of any public spring or reservoir.
2. This must be done so as to render it less fit for the purpose for which it is ordinarily used. The act of doing so must be voluntary.
3. The use of the expression 'less fit' and not 'unfit' is deliberate.
4. The water may not have been rendered totally unfit, but if it has been turned less fit, The accused is guilty.
5. The water must be of a public spring or reservoir. A spring or reservoir is public whose water is used by the public; it is immaterial whether the public is entitled lawfully to use that water or not. The water may be for drinking purpose or for any other purpose. A river is not a spring or reservoir.

CLASSIFICATION OF OFFENCE

Punishment—Imprisonment for 3 months, or fine of 500 rupees, or both

Cognizable—Bailable—Triable by any Magistrate

Non compoundable.

1.3 EXTORTION- SECTION 383-389 OF IPC.

CHAPTER NO. 17 OF THE IPC

Offences against the property

- Theft
- Extortion
- Robbery
- Dacoity

Section 383 of IPC: Extortion

DEFINITION.—Whoever intentionally puts any person in fear of any injury to that person, or to any other, and thereby dishonestly induces the person so put in fear to deliver to any person any property or valuable security, or anything signed or sealed which may be converted into a valuable security, commits "extortion".

EXAMPLES:-

- (a) A threatens to publish a defamatory libel concerning Z unless Z gives him money. He thus induces Z to give him money. A has committed extortion.
- (b) A threatens Z that he will keep Z's child in wrongful confinement, unless Z will sign and deliver to A a promissory note binding Z to pay certain monies to A.

INGREDIENTS OF EXTORTION

- ❖ FEAR OF INJURY
- ❖ INTENTIONALLY
- ❖ DISHONESTLY INDUCES
- ❖ DELIVERY TO ANY PERSON

1) FEAR OF INJURY

Section 44 of the Penal Code defines injury as any harm whatever illegally caused to any in body, mind, reputation or property.

- It is clear that the injury may also include other types of injury such as injury to the mind, reputation and damage or loss of property.
- Thus, the prosecutor must prove that the victim was put in fear of injury and that fear must exist in the victim mind at the time he surrenders the property or valuable security.
- However, if the extorter removed the property or valuable security from the victim, the element of putting a person in fear of injury and thereby inducing the delivery of the property is not fulfilled.
- Jadunandan Singh &Anr. AIR (1941) 129
The accused attacked the victim by force which he put the victim's thumbprint on a few pieces of blank paper. Then, he used it as valuable securities. He was charged under the offence of extortion. But the court acquitted the accused on the charge of extortion and convicted him with the offence of using criminal force.

2) INTENTIONALLY/VOLUNTARY.

Intentionally means the person intended to cause it. It can be also known as voluntarily. Section 39 of the Penal Code provide the definition of voluntarily as a person is said to cause an effect 'voluntarily' when he causes it by means whereby he intended to cause it, or by means which at the time of employing those means, he knew or had reason to believe to be likely cause it.

- For example, A sets fire to an empty house for the purpose of robbery and thus cause the death of a person. Here, A is not intended to cause death, yet, if he knew that his action was likely to cause death, he is said to cause death voluntarily

3) DISHONESTLY INDUCES

- The act must induce someone to do a certain thing. The inducement must be done dishonestly.
- Section 24 - 'dishonestly' as whoever does anything with the intention of causing wrongful gain to one person, or wrongful loss to another person, irrespective of whether the act causes actual wrongful loss or gain, is said to do that thing dishonestly.

This is shown in an Indian case of R v Abdul Kader ValadBalaAbuji, (1866) Crown Cases 45, HC Bombay,

- Where the accused had purchased from the government some rights with respect to the gathering of firewood. He misconstrued the extent of the right and demanded payment from the complainants for some wood that they had gathered.
- He was found not guilty of extortion on a number of grounds including the absence of dishonesty. Even if his belief was unfounded, he did not intend wrongful gain or loss.

4) DELIVERY TO ANY PERSON

Delivery: in order to commit extortion it is important that the property induced under threat must be delivered. However the threat may be used by one person and the property may be received by another person and both of them will be guilty of extortion. Before delivery, the offence will be attempt to extortion and once delivery is made the offence becomes extortion.

- Means, it is not necessary that the person who extorts receives the extorted property.
- The ingredient of extortion is the actual, delivery of ownership of a property by the, person who is being put in fear.
- For instance, A extorts C, and B to receive the extorted goods from C. This is possible because it has been mutually agreed by A and B. Hence, both A and B are guilty of extorting C.

ANY PERSON

Section 11 of the Penal Code, which include any company or registered association or body of persons, whether incorporated or not. • It means, if A extorts a company or registered association, then A is said to have extorted a person.

ANY PROPERTY

- Encompasses both moveable and immovable property.
- Section 22 of the Penal Code define moveable property to include corporeal property of every description, except land and things attached to the earth.
- Hence, property like cars, clothes, jewelries, cattle's and etc. come within the definition of moveable property.

VALUABLE SECURITY

Section 30

1.4 ROBBERY AND DACOITY- SECTION 390-402 OF IPC.

ROBBERY- (IPC SEC. 390,392-394,401)

MEANING :- Taking of something valuable whether money or property obtained from someone, through the use of threat or physical force is considered to be robbery.

ELEMENTS OF ROBBERY-

- The taking or carrying away of money or property.
- With intent to steal it
- From victim's presence
- Through the use of force or threat of violence.

SECTION 390 ROBBERY-

- In all robbery there is either theft or extortion.
- Robbery is the aggravated form of theft or extortion.

In all robbery there is either theft or extortion-

WHEN THEFT IS ROBBERY- Theft is "robbery" if, in order to the committing of the theft, or in committing the theft, or in carrying away or attempting to carry away property obtained by the theft, the offender, voluntarily causes or attempts to cause to any person death or hurt or wrongful restraint, or fear of instant death or of instant hurt, or of instant wrongful restraint.

Theft can be called as a robbery when the conditions given below are satisfied:

- When the offender voluntarily attempts to cause death;
- wrongful restraint;
- fear of instant death;
- instant wrongful restraint;
- Instant hurt.

And the above acts are done:

- While committing the theft,
- While carrying away the property acquired by theft, or
- While attempting to carry away property.

For example, if A holds B down and fraudulently takes B's money from B's clothes without B's consent. Here A has committed theft and by committing theft he has voluntarily caused wrongful restraint to B. Therefore, A has committed robbery

WHEN EXTORTION IS ROBBERY- Extortion is “robbery” if the offender, at the time of committing the extortion, is in the presence of the person put in fear, and commits the extortion by putting that person in fear of instant death, of instant hurt, or of instant wrongful restraint to that person or to some other person, and, by so putting in fear, induces the person so put in fear then and there to deliver up the thing extorted.

For example, if A meets B and B’s child is on a road. A takes the child and threatens to fling it down a height unless B delivers his purse. B delivers his purse. Here A has extorted the purse from B by causing B to be in fear of instant hurt to the child who is present. A has therefore robbed B. However if A obtains the property by saying that your child is in my hand of my gang and he/she will be put to death unless you send us ten lakh rupees. This will amount to extortion, and punishable as such, but it would not be considered as robbery unless B is put in fear of instant death of his child.

The dacoits, in this case, tried to take a wristwatch and a shawl of one person but as they were villagers the dacoits were not able to take anything with them. When dacoits started running from the villagers they received a hot chase from them and in return dacoits shot a fire. As a result, dharma, one of the villagers died but the villages captured one of the dacoits. In this case, the dacoits were charged under Section 395 of the Indian Penal Code.

- CLASSIFICATION OF OFFENCE

Punishment—Death, imprisonment for life, or rigorous imprisonment for 10 years and fine—Cognizable—Non-bailable—Triable by Court of Session—Non-compoundable.

 - a. uses any deadly weapon; or
 - b. causes grievous hurt to any person; or
 - c. attempts to cause death or grievous hurt to any person; Shravan Dashrath v. State of Maharashtra, (1997)

INTRODUCTION

As per the law dictionary and as observed in different judicial decisions, the term ‘search’, in the simplest language, denotes an action of a government machinery to go, look through or examine carefully a place, area, person, object etc. in order to find anything concealed or for the purpose of discovering evidence of a crime. The search of a person or vehicle or premises etc., can only be carried out under proper and valid authority of law. It is also well established that search should have a nexus with the crime, it cannot be a random search.

Searches are proceedings for the collection of evidence and are therefore part of investigation u/s 2(h) . In order to recover physical evidence police must search the premises and seize inculpatory articles from persons and places. Search also means to find out the accused connected with any offence, who may have concealed itself in certain premises, hence entry into the premises to search for the accused is imperative.

A police officer or any other authorised person carrying out a procedure such as search or seizure is supposed to know the rules and acts relating to it to work effectively and efficiently. These functions requires specialized knowledge of skill and procedure. Sometimes the officer might make mistakes while applying the rules and acts relating to search, seizure and production of materials which becomes fatal for the department’s case when it comes to judicial scrutiny.

2.4 Security for Keeping the peace and good behaviour- Section 106/106, 107/107, 108/108, 109/109, 110/110, 111/112 (Central/ State of J&K code)

INTRODUCTION

Security, for the purpose of Chapter VIII, means collateral in the form of a bond to pay a specific amount on breach of the condition of the bond. Chapter VIII of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 deals with security proceedings conducted by the courts. It is not only the duty of the criminal law to bring the offender to justice but to ensure that such offences are not repeated.

Keeping this in consideration, the lawmakers have inserted Sections 106 to 110 to empower the courts to conduct security proceedings under the Code to prevent convicted offenders and habitual offenders from reiterating such acts.

Section 106 Cr.P.C.-

Security for keeping the peace on conviction.—

(1) When a Court of Session or Court of a Magistrate of the first class convicts a person of any of the offences specified in sub-section (2) or of abetting any such offence and is of opinion that it is necessary to take security from such person for keeping the peace, the Court may, at the time of passing sentence on such person, order him to execute a bond, with or without sureties, for keeping the peace for such period, not exceeding three years, as it thinks fit.

(2) The offences referred to in sub-section (1) are—

(a) any offence punishable under Chapter VIII of the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860), other than an offence punishable under section 153A or section 153B or section 154 thereof;

(b) any offence which consists of, or includes, assault or using criminal force or committing mischief;

(c) any offence of criminal intimidation;

(d) any other offence which caused, or was intended or known to be likely to cause, a breach of the peace.

(3) If the conviction is set aside on appeal or otherwise, the bond so executed shall become void.

(4) An order under this section may also be made by an Appellate Court or by a Court when exercising its powers of revision.

The important ingredients of the provision are:

Firstly, it applies to “offences under Chapter VIII of the Indian Penal Code including the offence of assault, criminal force and criminal Intimidation”

Secondly, the bond can be executed “with or without sureties” to take the guarantee in case there is a violation of the conditions of the bond and the person escapes from justice.

Thirdly, the persons must be “convicted by a court of competent jurisdiction” after a fair trial.

Fourthly, if the “conviction is set aside in an appeal or review or otherwise, the bond executed shall be void”

Chapter VIII of IPC - OFFENCES AGAINST THE PUBLIC TRANQUILLITY

Section 106 J&K Cr.P.C.-

Security for keeping the peace on conviction.—

(1) Whenever any person accused of any offence punishable under Chapter VIII of the Ranbir Panel Code, other than an offence punishable under section 143, section 149, section 153-A or section 154 thereof, or of assault or other offence involving a breach of the peace, or of abetting the same, or any person accused of committing criminal intimidation, is convicted of such offence before the High Court, Court of Session, Court of Chief Judicial Magistrate or any other Judicial Magistrate of the first class.

And such Court is of opinion that it is necessary to require such person to execute a bond for keeping the peace.

Such Court may, at the time of passing sentence on such person, order him to execute a bond for a sum proportionate to his means with or without sureties for keeping the peace during such period, not exceeding three years, as it thinks fit to fix.

(2) If the conviction is set aside on appeal or otherwise, the bond so executed shall become void.

(3) Any order under this section may also be made by an Appellate Court or by the High Court when exercising its powers of revision.

Section 107 Cr.P.C.-

Security for keeping the peace in other cases.—

(1) When an Executive Magistrate receives information that any person is likely to commit a breach of the peace or disturb the public tranquillity or to do any wrongful act that may probably occasion a breach of the peace or disturb the public tranquillity and is of opinion that there is sufficient ground for proceeding, he may, in the manner hereinafter provided, require such person to show cause why he should not be ordered to execute a bond with or without sureties, for keeping the peace for such period, not exceeding one year, as the Magistrate thinks fit.

(2) Proceedings under this section may be taken before any Executive Magistrate when either the place where the breach of the peace or disturbance is apprehended is within his local jurisdiction or there is within such jurisdiction a person who is likely to commit a breach of the peace or disturb the public tranquillity or to do any wrongful act as aforesaid beyond such jurisdiction.

Object : The objective of the provision is preventive in nature and not punitive. The section is designed “to enable the Magistrate to take measures with a view to preventing the commission of offences involving breach of peace or disturbance of public tranquillity”

In Rajendra Singh Pathania v. State, the court observed that the object of the provisions is “to invoke it in an emergent situation when prompt action is necessitated to deal with threatening apprehension of breach of peace.

The Executive Magistrate is the head of the police force in a district who is accountable for maintaining peace and tranquillity. Thus, “he has absolute and unqualified discretion to decide whether or not it is imperative, for maintenance of peace, to institute proceedings under Section 107” However, this discretion must be guided by reason and not a whim. To ensure the reasonable exercise of power under this provision the sine qua non have been obtruded by the courts:

Firstly, the Magistrate should be of “the opinion that there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the person informed against”

Secondly, the Magistrate is “bound to record the reasons for forming such opinion before issuing notice under Section 111”

Section 107 J&K Cr.P.C.-

Security for keeping the peace in other cases.—

(1) Whenever a District Magistrate, Sub-Divisional Magistrate or Executive Magistrate of the first class is informed that any person is likely to commit a breach of the peace or disturb the public tranquillity, or to do any wrongful act that may probably occasion a breach of the peace, or disturb tranquillity, the Magistrate if in his opinion there is sufficient ground for proceeding may in manner hereinafter provided. Such person to show cause why he should not be ordered to execute a bond, with or without sureties, for keeping the peace for such period not exceeding one year as the Magistrate thinks fit to fix.

(2) Proceeding under this section may be taken before any Magistrate empowered to proceed under sub-section (1) when either the place where the breach of the peace or disturbance is apprehended is within the local limits of such Magistrate’s jurisdiction or there is within such limits a person who is likely to commit a breach of the peace or disturb the public tranquillity, or to do any wrongful act as aforesaid beyond such limits].

Procedure of Magistrate not empowered to act under sub-section (1).— When any Magistrate not empowered to proceed under sub-section (1) has reason to believe that any person is likely to commit a breach of the peace or disturb the public tranquillity, or to do any wrongful act that may probably occasion a breach of the peace or disturb the public tranquillity and that such breach of the peace or disturbance cannot be prevented otherwise than by detaining such person in custody, such Magistrate may, after recording his reasons, issue a warrant for his arrest (if he is not already in custody or before the Court), and may send him before a Magistrate empowered to deal with the case, together with a copy of his reasons.

A Magistrate before whom a person is sent under sub-section (3) may in his discretion detain such person in custody pending further action by himself under this Chapter

Section 108 Cr.P.C.-

Security for good behaviour from persons disseminating seditious matters.—

- (1) When an Executive Magistrate receives information that there is within his local jurisdiction any person who, within or without such jurisdiction,—

 - (i) either orally or in writing or in any other manner, intentionally disseminates or attempts to disseminate or abets the dissemination of,—

 - (a) any matter the publication of which is punishable under section 124A or section 153A or section 153B or section 295A of the Indian Penal Code, or
 - (b) any matter concerning a Judge acting or purporting to act in the discharge of his official duties which amounts to criminal intimidation or defamation under the Indian Penal Code,
 - (ii) makes, produces, publishes or keeps for sale, imports, exports, conveys, sells, lets to hire, distributes, publicly exhibits or in any other manner puts into circulation any obscene matter such as is referred to in section 292 of the Indian Penal Code, and the Magistrate is of opinion that there is sufficient ground for proceeding, the Magistrate may, in the manner hereinafter provided, require such person to show cause why he should not be ordered to execute a bond, with or without sureties, for his good behaviour for such period, not exceeding one year, as the Magistrate thinks fit.
- (2) No proceedings shall be taken under this section against the editor, proprietor, printer or publisher of any publication registered under, and edited, printed and published in conformity with, the rules laid down in the Press and Registration of Books Act, 1867, with reference to any matter contained in such publication except by the order or under the authority of the State Government or some officer empowered by the State Government in this behalf.

The second clause of the provision provides for “taking security for the dissemination of obscene material” In the first part, it is essential that the dissemination was done intentionally whereas, for the second part, the intention is not a consideration. Any person who “makes, produces, publishes or keeps for sale, imports, export conveys, sells, lets to hire, distributes, publicly exhibits or in any other manner puts into circulation any obscene matter” shall be included under this section. Moreover, the section does not only apply on the commission of offence but also on attempt andabetment of the same offences.

Section 108 J&K Cr.P.C.-

Security for good behaviour from persons disseminating seditious matter.—

Whenever a District Magistrate or Executive Magistrate of the first class specially empowered by the Government in this behalf, has information that there is within the limits of his jurisdiction any person who, within or without such limits either orally or in writing, or in any other manner intentionally disseminates or attempts to disseminate or in any way abets the dissemination of,—

- (a) any seditious matter, that is to say, any matter the publication of which is punishable under section 124-A of the Ranbir Penal Code ; or
- (b) any matter the publication of which is punishable under section 153-A of the Ranbir Penal Code ; or

No proceedings shall be taken under this section against the editor, proprietor, printer or publisher of any publication registered under, and edited, printed and published in conformity with, the rules laid down in the Press and Publications Act, 1989, with reference to any matter contained in such publication except by the order or under the authority of the Government of some other or under the authority of the Government or some officer empowered by it in this behalf.

Section 109 Cr. P.C.-

Security for good behaviour from suspected persons.—When an Executive Magistrate receives information that there is within his local jurisdiction a person taking precautions to conceal his presence and that there is reason to believe that he is doing so with a view to committing a cognizable offence, the Magistrate may, in the manner hereinafter provided, require such person to show cause why he should not be ordered to execute a bond, with or without sureties, for his good behaviour for such period, not exceeding one year, as the Magistrate thinks fit.

“Conceal presence”- While explaining the scope of the terms “conceal presence” under Section 109, the court in Abdul Ghafur v. Emperor held that “these words are sufficiently wide to cover not only the concealment of bodily presence in a house or grove, etc. but also the concealment of appearance by wearing a mask or covering the face or disguising in any other way”

Now, in order to apply the provisions of Section 109, the courts have laid down two essential conditions:

- i. “The person must be taking precautions to conceal his presence, and
- ii. “The concealment must be with a view to committing a cognizable offence”

Section 109 J&K Cr. P.C.-

Security for good behaviour from Suspected persons.—

Wherever a District Magistrate, Sub-Divisional Magistrate or Executive Magistrate of the First Class receives information that there is within the local jurisdiction of such Magistrate a person taking precautions to conceal his presence and that there is reason to believe that he is doing so with a view to committing a cognizable offence, such Magistrate may in the manner hereinafter provided, require such person to show cause why he should not be ordered to execute a bond, with or without sureties, for his good behaviour for such period, not exceeding one year, as the Magistrate thinks fit.

Section 110 Cr. P.C.-

Security for good behaviour from habitual offenders.—

When an Executive Magistrate receives information that there is within his local jurisdiction a person who—

- a. is by habit a robber, house-breaker, thief, or forger, or
- b. is by habit a receiver of stolen property knowing the same to have been stolen, or
- c. habitually protects or harbours thieves, or aids in the concealment or disposal of stolen property, or
- d. habitually commits, or attempts to commit, or abets the commission of, the offence of kidnapping, abduction, extortion, cheating or mischief, or any offence punishable under Chapter XII of the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860), or under section 489A, section 489B, section 489C or section 489D of that Code, or

 - e. the Essential Commodities Act, 1955;
 - f. the Untouchability (Offences) Act, 1955;
 - g. the Customs Act, 1962;
 - h. the Foreigners Act, 1946; or
 - (ii) any offence punishable under any other law providing for the prevention of hoarding or profiteering or of adulteration of food or drugs or of corruption, or
- (g) is so desperate and dangerous to render his being at large without security hazardous to the community, such Magistrate may, in the manner hereinafter provided, require such person to show cause why he should not be ordered to execute a bond, with sureties, for his good behaviour for such period, not exceeding three years, as the Magistrate thinks fit.

In Emperor v. Vijaidatta Jha, the court averred that “the object of the section is to protect the public against hardened and habitual offenders” The information received by the police officer under this section “should not be vague and must indicate that person against whom the information is given is by habit an offender”

Section 110 J&K Cr. P.C.-

Security for good behaviour from habitual offenders.—

Whenever a District Magistrate or Sub-Divisional Magistrate or an Executive Magistrate of the first class specially empowered in this behalf by the Government receives information that any person within the local limits of his jurisdiction—

- a. is by habit a robber, house-breaker, thief or forger, or
- b. is by habit a receiver of stolen property knowing the same to have been stolen, or
- c. habitually protects or harbours thieves or aids in the concealment or disposal of stolen property, or
- d. habitually commits, or attempts to commit, or abets the commission of, the offence of kidnapping, abduction, extortion, cheating or mischief, or any offence punishable under Chapter XII of the Ranbir Penal Code, or under section 489-A, section 489- B, Section 489-C or section 489-D of that Code, or

 - (ii) any offence punishable under any other law providing for the prevention of hoarding or profiteering or of adulteration of food or drugs or of corruption, or]
- (f) Is so desperate and dangerous as to render his being at large without security hazardous to the community.

Such Magistrate may, in manner hereinafter provided, require such person to show cause why he should not be ordered to execute a bond, with sureties, for his good behaviour for such period, not exceeding three years, as the Magistrate thinks fit to fix.

Commutation of Sentences (Section 433 & 433 A CrPC)

And Provisions To Bail (Section 436 to Section 446 CrPC)

Section 433 of Cr.P.C:

Power to commute sentence.—

- a. The appropriate Government may, without the consent of the person sentenced, commute—
 - a. a sentence of death, for any other punishment provided by the Indian Penal Code;
 - b. a sentence of imprisonment for life, for imprisonment for a term not exceeding fourteen years or for fine;
 - c. a sentence of rigorous imprisonment, for simple imprisonment for any term to which that person might have been sentenced, or for fine;
 - d. a sentence of simple imprisonment, for fine.

Application Of Section 433: This section applies to prisoners undergoing imprisonment for life who (1) have been sentenced for an offence punishable with death or life, or (2) to prisoners who have been sentenced to death by Court but whose death sentence has been commuted to imprisonment for life. Such prisoners cannot be released by remission of their sentences unless they have undergone imprisonment for at least fourteen years in jail.

Object: The object of inserting the new Section 433-A is to make sure that the power of remission of whole or any part of sentence under Section 432 is not misused by the Government and the murderers and dangerous offenders who are sentenced to life imprisonment are not allowed to be set free only after a few days or few years imprisonment in jail.

The provision of mandatory requirement of undergoing at least fourteen years imprisonment by the life convicts, therefore, seems to be an effective restraint on unbridled power of the Government to release lifers on remission.

It must, however, be clarified that the requirement of at least 14 years' imprisonment in jail for a life convict as contemplated in Section 433-A does not in any way affect the pardoning power of the Head of the Executive Government conferred on him by Article 72 or Article 161 of the Constitution and the President and the Governor of the State may commute or remit the sentence under these constitutional provisions on the advice of their respective Council of Ministers.

Section 402 of J&K CrPC:

Power to commute punishment.—(1) The Governor may, without the consent of the person sentenced, commute any one of the following sentences for any other mentioned after it :—

death, life imprisonment, rigorous imprisonment for a term not exceeding that to which he might have been sentenced, simple imprisonment for a like term, fine.

(2) Nothing in this section shall affect the provisions of section 54 or section 55 of the Ranbir Penal Code.

* Article 72 & article 161 pardoning power of President and Governor respectively

Section 433A of Cr.P.C:

Restriction on powers of remission or commutation in certain cases.—

Notwithstanding anything contained in section 432, where a sentence of imprisonment for life is imposed on conviction of a person for an offence for which death is one of the punishments provided by law, or where a sentence of death imposed on a person has been commuted under section 433 into one of imprisonment for life, such person shall not be released from prison unless he had served at least fourteen years of imprisonment.

Even with remissions earned, sentence of life imprisonment cannot be reduced to below fourteen years. While Sections 432 and 433 of Cr P.C. empower the appropriate Government to suspend, remit or commute sentences including a sentence of death and life imprisonment, Section 433-A imposes a fetter that life convict cannot be released from prison unless he has served at least 14 years of imprisonment.

Chapter XXXIII of Cr.P.C

PROVISIONS AS TO BAIL AND BONDS

Introduction:

In general, the term bail means the temporary release of an accused person on a temporary basis. As the term bail has been derived from the French word bailed which means to deliver or to give. The term bail has been used for a long time. As defined in the oxford dictionary bail is the absolution of an accused person temporarily awaiting the trial or a sum of money is lodged by the accused person as a guarantee for his appearance in the court.

The provisions regarding the bail and bonds have been specified from section 436 to 450 of the Criminal Procedure Code. These provisions envisaged in the code gives the brief regarding the provisions of the bail.

The concept of bail is that it acts as security lodged by the accused person on the basis of which he can be released on a temporary basis but needs to appear in court whenever required by the court. The process of bail takes place while the trial of the accused person is still pending. Generally, a person seeks this option in order to get himself released from the police custody.

Section 436 of Cr.P.C:

In what cases bail to be taken.—

(1) When any person other than a person accused of a non-bailable offence is arrested or detained without warrant by an officer in charge of a police station, or appears or is brought before a Court, and is prepared at any time while in the custody of such officer or at any stage of the proceeding before such Court to give bail, such person shall be released on bail:

Provided that such officer or Court, if he or it thinks fit, may, and shall, if such person is indigent and is unable to furnish surety, instead of taking bail from such person, discharge him on his executing a bond without sureties for his appearance as hereinafter provided.

Explanation.—Where a person is unable to give bail within a week of the date of his arrest, it shall be a sufficient ground for the officer or the Court to presume that he is an indigent person for the purposes of this proviso:

Provided further that nothing in this section shall be deemed to affect the provisions of sub-section (3) of section 116 or section 446A.

(2) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (1), where a person has failed to comply with the conditions of the bail-bond as regards the time and place of attendance, the Court may refuse to release him on bail, when on a subsequent occasion in the same case he appears before the Court or is brought in custody and any such refusal shall be without prejudice to the powers of the Court to call upon any person bound by such bond to pay the penalty thereof under section 446.

Main Ingredients:

1. The person shall be an accused of a bail able offence;
2. Should have been arrested or detained without a warrant;
3. Is prepared to furnish a surety either to the investigating officer or to the court, that he will not abscond himself from the course of justice;

The application of bail can be made at any time either to the officer in charge under whose custody the accused/detainee is or at any stage of proceeding before the court.

Section 496 of J&K Cr.P.C.

In what cases bail to be taken.—

1. Provided that such officer or Court, if he or it thinks fit, may, instead of taking bail from such person, discharge him on his executing a bond without sureties for his appearance as hereinafter provided :

Provided, further, that nothing in this section shall be deemed to affect the provisions of section 107 sub-section (4), or section 117, subsection (3).

2. Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (1), where a person has failed to comply with the conditions of the bail bond as regards the time and place of attendance, the Court may refuse to release him on bail, when on a subsequent occasion in the same case he appears before the Court or is brought in custody and any such refusal shall be without prejudice to the powers of the Court to call upon any person bound by such bond to pay the penalty thereof under section 514.

Section 436A of Cr.P.C:

Maximum period for which an under-trial prisoner can be detained.—Where a person has, during the period of investigation, inquiry or trial under this Code of an offence under any law (not being an offence for which the punishment of death has been specified as one of the punishments under that law) undergone detention for a period extending up to one-half of the maximum period of imprisonment specified for that offence under that law, he shall be released by the Court on his personal bond with or without sureties:

Provided that the Court may, after hearing the Public Prosecutor and for reasons to be recorded by it in writing, order the continued detention of such person for a period longer than one-half of the said period or release him on bail instead of the personal bond with or without sureties:

Provided further that no such person shall in any case be detained during the period of investigation, inquiry or trial for more than the maximum period of imprisonment provided for the said offence under that law.

Provided further that no such person shall in any case be detained during the period of investigation, inquiry or trial for more than maximum period of imprisonment provided for said offence under the law.

Explanation:—In computing the period of detention under this section for granting bail, the period of detention passed due to delay in proceeding caused by the accused shall be excluded].

CHAPTER 4 THE INDIAN EVIDENCE ACT 1872

3.1 Presumption of documents- Section 79,80,81A,85,85A,85B,85C,88A,90A.

- Introduction

The evidence in criminal cases plays an important role in deciding the case and to bring out justice. The Indian Evidence Act accepts two forms of evidence, documentary evidence and oral evidence. According to the Indian Evidence Act, the documents which are produced for the inspection of the court are called documentary evidence. The documentary evidence is of great help and they are very reliable during the process of investigation. The documents are mainly of two types: private document and public document.

- Public Documents:

Section 74 of the Indian Evidence Act defines public documents as “Documents forming the act or records of sovereign authority, namely Parliament, Legislative Assemblies, official bodies, tribunals, public officers, or any part of India or of Commonwealth or foreign country.” Public Documents are those documents which are authenticated by a public officer and subsequently which is made available to the public at large for reference and use. Public documents also contain statements made by the public officer in their official capacity, which acts as admissible evidence of the fact in civil matters. These documents are also known as public records as these are issued or published for public knowledge.

Example: Electoral roll, Census report, town Planning reports, Birth and death register, etc.

- Private Documents:

Section 75 of the Indian Evidence Act says that all other documents other than public documents are private documents. Private documents are those documents which are prepared between persons for their usual business transactions and communications. These documents are kept in the custody of the private persons only and are not made available to the public at large. Certified copies of the private documents are generally not considered as evidence unless there is proof of the original copy is provided.

Example: A person's ID card, gift deed, passport are all private documents.

- Section 79 to Section 90 of the Indian Evidence Act provides various presumptions as to the documents. There are certain presumptions regarding the documentary evidence in this act. According to the Indian Evidence Act, the presumption is of two types. There are certain cases in which the Court "shall presume" and in certain cases, it "may presume". The terms are defined in Section 4 of the Evidence Act. According to this Section,

"May presume" means whenever it is mentioned by this Act that the Court may presume a fact, it may either consider such fact as proved, unless and until it is disproved or may call for proof of it.

"Shall presume" means whenever it is mentioned in this Act that the Court shall presume a fact, it shall consider such fact as proved, unless and until it is disproved.

- SECTION 79 PRESUMPTION AS TO GENUINENESS OF CERTIFIED COPIES.

The Court shall presume to be genuine every document purporting to be a certificate, certified copy or other document, which is by law declared to be admissible as evidence of any particular fact and which purports to be duly certified by any officer [of the Central Government or of a State Government, or by any officer [in the State of Jammu and Kashmir] who is duly authorized thereto by the central Government:

Provided that such document is substantially in the form and purports to be executed in the manner directed by law in that behalf.

The Court shall also presume that any officer by whom any such document purports to be signed or certified held when he signed it, the official character which he claims in such paper.

- PRINCIPLE

Section 79 is founded upon the maxim "omnia proesumuntur rite esse acta" i.e., all acts are presumed to be rightly done. According to the section when a certified copy of an original document is produced before the court as a secondary evidence the court is bound to presume it to be genuine and it is admissible as evidence. The presumption that the court has to draw that a certified copy of a document is genuine and also that the officer signed in his official character, is also correct. This presumption is liable to be rebutted, if the document in question is not certified copy. If anyone alleges that the certified copy is not genuine the burden of proving the same shall lie on him.

- SECTION 80 PRESUMPTION AS TO DOCUMENTS PRODUCED AS RECORD OF EVIDENCE. –

Whenever any document is produced before any Court purporting to be a record or memorandum of the evidence, or of any part of the evidence, given by a witness in a judicial proceeding or before any officer authorized by law to take such evidence, or to be a statement or confession by any prisoner or accused person, taken in accordance with law, and purporting to be signed by any Judge or Magistrate, or by any such officer as aforesaid, the Court shall presume - that the document is genuine; that any statement as to the circumstances under which it was taken, purporting to be made by the person signing it, are true, and that such evidence, statement or confession was duly taken.

Application

The section applies:

- (i) to the document which purports to be a record or memorandum of the evidence given by a witness in a judicial proceeding or before any official authorized by law to take such evidence, and
- (ii) to a statement or confession of an accused person taken and recorded as per law.

- SECTION 81-A: PRESUMPTION AS TO GAZETTES IN ELECTRONIC FORMS.

The Court shall presume the genuineness of every electronic record purporting to be the Official Gazette, or purporting to be electronic record directed by any law to be kept by any person, if such electronic record is kept substantially in the form required by law and is produced from proper custody.

Explanation.-Electronic records are said to be in proper custody if they are in the place in which, and under the care of the person with whom, they naturally be; but no custody is improper if it is proved to have had a legitimate origin, or the circumstances of the particular case are such as to render such an origin probable.

- SECTION 85: PRESUMPTION AS TO POWERS-OF-ATTORNEY.

The Court shall presume that every document purporting to be a power-of-attorney, and to have been executed before, and authenticated by, a Notary Public, or any Court, Judge, Magistrate, Indian Consul or Vice-Consul, or representative of the Central Government, was so executed and authenticated.

Power of attorney means “Power of Attorney is a document of agency whereby the principal appoints an agent to do and execute certain acts or deeds on his behalf.”

- Conditions for valid Power of Attorney:

Two conditions have to be satisfied according to Section 85:

- (1) It must be executed before a Notary Public or any Court, Judge, Magistrate etc.. and
- (2) It must be authenticated by him.

- SECTION 85-A PRESUMPTION AS TO ELECTRONIC AGREEMENTS. –

The Court shall presume that every electronic record purporting to be an agreement containing the electronic signatures of the parties was so concluded by affixing the electronic signature of the parties.

This section specifically talks about the presumptions of the courts in India with regards to electronic agreements and says that the courts shall presume that every available electronic recording which has an electronic signature affixed to it shall be considered to have a valid evidentiary value under the Indian Evidence Act and in the eyes of the courts in India.

- SECTION 85-B: PRESUMPTIONS AS TO ELECTRONIC RECORDS AND ELECTRONIC SIGNATURES-

- (1) In any proceedings involving a secure electronic record, the Court shall presume unless contrary is proved, that the secure electronic record has not been altered since the specific point of time to which the secure status relates.
- (2) In any proceedings, involving secure electronic signatures the Court shall presume unless the contrary is proved that –
 - a. the secure electronic signature is affixed by subscriber with the intention of signing or approving the electronic record;
 - b. except in the case of a secure electronic record or a secure electronic signature, nothing in this section shall create any presumption relating to authenticity and integrity of the electronic record or any electronic signature.

This section tells us that the court shall presume that the e-contract or documents which are being presented in front of the court have not been tampered with i.e. they are presented in their original form without anyone making any alterations in it. The secure status of such information shall be required to be maintained until a specific time. The section also tells us that once a digital signature is affixed to an agreement available online, such shall be presumed by the courts to be an acceptance of such agreements.

- SECTION 85-C: PRESUMPTION AS TO ELECTRONIC SIGNATURE CERTIFICATES –

The Court shall presume, unless contrary is proved, that the information listed in a electronic signature Certificate is correct, except for information specified as subscriber information which has not been verified, if the certificate was accepted by the subscriber.

This section tells us that if a digital signature is affixed to a particular document then the court shall presume that such document is true and correct.

- SECTION 88-A:PRESUMPTION AS TO ELECTRONIC

MESSAGES –

The Court may presume that an electronic message forwarded by the originator through an electronic mail server to the addressee to whom the message purports to be addressed corresponds with the message as fed into his computer for transmission; but the court shall not make any presumption as to the person by whom such message was sent".

Explanation : For the purposes of this section, the expressions "addressee" and "originator" shall have the same meanings respectively assigned to them in clauses (b) and (za) of sub-section (1) of section 2 of the Information Technology Act, 2000.

The very purpose of this section is to define the terms 'addressee' and 'originator' concerning an e-contract. It mainly talks about the power of the court with regards to presumption of the addressee of an electronic communication. The section says that the courts shall presume the 'addressee' to be a person to such electronic communication has been directed by the 'originator'. Though, as per this section, the court does not have any power with regards to the presumption of who the 'originator' of the thread of electronic communication is.

Addressee and originator as per IT Act:

Section 2(b) "addressee" means a person who is intended by the originator to receive the electronic record but does not include any intermediary;

Section 2(1)(za) "originator" means a person who sends, generates, stores or transmits any electronic message, or causes any electronic message to be sent, generated, stored or transmitted to any other person but does not include an intermediary;

- SECTION 90-A:PRESUMPTION AS TO ELECTRONIC RECORDS FIVE YEARS OLD-

Where any electronic record, purporting or proved to be five years old, is produced from any custody which the Court in the particular case considers proper, the Court may presume that the electronic signature which purports to be the electronic signature of any particular person was so affixed by him or any person authorised by him in this behalf.

Explanation : Electronic records are said to be in proper custody if they are in the place in which, and under the care of the person with whom, they naturally be; but no custody is improper if it is proved to have had a legitimate origin, or the circumstances of the particular case are such as to render such an origin probable.

According to this Section, the Court presumes that when any electronic record that is above five years old and it is procured from the proper custody for investigation. It is presumed that the digital signature corresponds to the particular person whose custody the record is or the signature belongs to the person who has authorized it. The term proper custody means that the electronic record is with the care of the person and in a place where it would naturally be. It is also mentioned in the Section that no custody is improper if it is proved that the custody is of legitimate origin in the particular case to render such origin possible.

INFERENCE

- The above Sections regarding presumptions is a very important part of the Indian Evidence Act as they help in the investigation. The presumptions make the investigation easier and fast. The Court has to follow all the presumptions and it can only change its notion on presumptions only when it is necessary. The documents have a lot of evidentiary value and it is important to investigate them properly and also save the Court's valuable time at the same time. Thus the presumptions regarding the documents are a very essential part of the Indian Evidence Act.

CONCLUSION

As a law enforcement officer, it is the fundamental duty of the police to serve the mankind, to safeguard lives and property, to protect the innocent against the deception, the weak against oppression or intimidation and the peaceful against violence and disorder and to respect the constitutional right of all men to liberty, equality and justice.

The most important traditional function of the Police is to deal with a criminal in an action; this function requires detection and investigation of crime, arrest of the offenders and the collection of evidences against those who are prosecuted in the court of law.

According to the Preamble of the Police Act 1861, “the police officer is n instrument for the prevention and detection of crime. If any person is in trouble or if he is having a threat to his life he always remember the protector of our rights i.e. Police.

The criminal justice system is composed of three primary and discernible components: police, courts, and corrections. These components are sometimes referred to as subsystems. From this perspective, the components of the criminal justice system are seen as interrelated, interdependent, and striving to achieve a unified goal. This view of criminal justice often focuses on how cases flow through the system, causing ripple effects as cases move from one component to the next. The actions of police officers on the streets, for example, affect the workload of courts, and the decisions of judges in courtrooms affect the operation of jails and prisons.

Police holds a special place in the criminal justice system. Not only do the activities of law enforcement officers affect the operations of the entire criminal justice system, but police are said to be the “gate keepers” of the system. They are usually the first to make contact with accused offenders and are in a position to make some very important decisions about what will happen to those individuals. Perhaps the most frequent decision that a police officer makes is to initiate an alleged offender's journey through the maze of criminal justice.
